UTILITY TAP AND CAPITAL CHARGE DEFINITIONS:

TAP FEE – This fee is the actual tap (connection) in to the system, the privilege (fee) to tap the system.

CAPITAL CHARGE FEE – This fee is the “buy in to the system” for new users. Rationale is that residents have funded the improvements to the system over the years by paying property taxes on improved property as well as water/sewer fees whereas a vacant lot has not.

SANITARY/WATER INVESTMENT FEE – This fee is applicable in areas where the City funded the installation of utilities but did not do a special assessment or require the residents to connect to the public utilities. When the private well and/or septic system fails, the resident must connect to the public utilities. The resident may enter into a five (5) year contract to help pay the sanitary/water investment fee. The resident must pay 1/5 of the investment fee plus the inspections and any meter charges at the time of signing the contract. The remaining four payments will appear on the summer tax bill at 6% interest.

NOTES:

The Tap Fee is not charged to each new lot in new developments such as a subdivision as the developer installed the utilities. The developer pays one Tap Fee to the City for the entire development as he is tapping into the City’s system once to extend utilities to the individual sites, but no Cap Fee at this point. The Cap Fee is charged with each new house as part of the building permit process, with no Tap Fee.

Both the Tap and Cap fees are charged for property splits that create vacant lots to build on.

The Sanitary/Water Investment Fee is charged in lieu of the Cap Fee, in those areas under the Investment Fee. No Tap Fee is charged with the Investment Fee, as stubs were provided to the properties when the utility improvements were installed. In the event there is no lead (stub) to the lot (such is the case with an additional lot split), the Tap fee would be charged.

Credit is given to a property when an existing improved property is razed to construct a new structure, as the previous improvements paid property taxes and water/sewer bills. If it is a single family residence replaced with a new single family residence and they use the existing lines, no Tap or Cap fee is charged, just the inspection fees and meters. For a change in use between the old structure and new structure, credit is given on the difference in meter size on the Cap Fees and no Tap Fee is charged if using the same lines. Additional taps would pay the Tap Fees.
